These recommendations were: First—A provision that will make the so-called endless chain caused by the redemption of greenbacks with gold and consequent runs upon the researry reserve impossible. Second—That national banks be permitted to issue circulation up to the par value of the bonds deposited to secure that circulation, instead of only 90 per cent. as at present. Third—A reduction of the tax on national bank circulation, the present tax being 1 per cent.

Third—A reduction of the tax on national bank circulation, the present tax being 1 per cent.

Fourth—That national banks with a capital of only $25,000 be authorized to be established in small towas, the minimum now being $50,000.

Not being satisfied that the measure formulated by the house committee meets the situation, the president wishes the whole question taken up and disposed of as early as possable so that it may not be a factor in the counting campaign. This also appears to be the view of the leaders. Mr. Addried, chairman of the senate committee on finance, Mr. Addried, chairman of the senate committee on finance, when the committee of the committee was authorized to at during the recease, but it was believed that not until the cool months of the fall season would it really do any work on the subject.
